2019 REVIEW

MAIN NEWS OF THE YEAR

Metro rounds up the most memorable news and pop culture events from the last 12 months.

DMITRY BELYAEV, MIGUEL VELÁZQUEZ / METRO WORLD NEWS / PHOTOS: GETTY IMAGES & PROVIDED

1 Street fury
2019 became a year marked by social protests. The streets were on fire, mainly in Latin America. For example, in Venezuela, after the proclamation of Juan Guaidó as president; in Haiti, demanding the resignation of President Jovenel Moïse; in Ecuador after fuel price increases; in Bolivia, after the elections in which Evo Morales was seeking a fourth term; and in Chile because of profound social inequality. There were also intense protests in Hong Kong, France, Lebanon, Iran and Iraq. The rise of the feminist movement was spotted, and the fight against climate change gained more followers.

2 Exploring the corners of space
Space exploration continued throughout the year and humanity was amazed by new discoveries. Chinese probe Chang'e 4 for the first time has shown the dark side of the Moon, the least explored area of the Earth's natural satellite. Also, on April 10, the first photograph of a black hole located in the center of the galaxy M87 was revealed. It was made by the Event Horizon Telescope initiative, a collaboration in which nearly 200 scientists participate.

3 The Islamic State leader is killed
In March, the terrorist group Islamic State lost control of the last existing territory stemming from 2014, a year in which it had self-proclaimed the so-called Caliphate. In 2019 its leader Abu Bakr al-Baghdadi, whose death was earlier speculated, appeared again. On October 26, the 48-year-old was killed during a special operation executed by the United States. He detonated a suicide vest while being chased through a tunnel.

4 The end of several "eras"
On April 26, "Avengers: Endgame" was released, breaking several records and becoming the highest-grossing movie in history. It earned $2.7B+ in box office, surpassing "Avatar," "Titanic" and "Star Wars: The Force Awakens." However, it was not the only "end of an era." In 2019, we saw the farewell of HBO's hit series "Game of Thrones," which ended after eight seasons, as well as "The Big Bang Theory," which came to an end after 12 years of broadcasting. "Episode IX – The Rise of Skywalker" is bringing a "Star Wars" saga to an end.

5 Unbeatable fire
Massive fire ravaged Notre Dame, one of France's most famous landmarks, on April 15. It caused enormous damage to the cathedral that was built more than 600 years ago. A fire also wiped out much of Japan's Shuri Castle on October 31. The nearly 500-year-old building has been rebuilt on other occasions, including after World War II. Fires in the Amazon rainforest and other parts of the world, such as Australia, also caught the attention of environmental activists.

6 "El Chapo" trial
Joaquín "El Chapo" Guzmán, a Mexican drug kingpin who twice escaped prison before his final capture in 2016 and extradition to the U.S., was found guilty of a number of criminal charges (including murder, money laundering, drug trafficking, racketeering, organized crime) related to his leadership of the Sinaloa Cartel. The trial of the year saw the 62-year-old being sentenced to life in prison plus 30 years.

THOSE WHO PASSED AWAY

Karl Lagerfeld

The creative director of the French fashion house Chanel since 1983 passed away at the age of 85 on February 19. Lagerfeld also held the position of creative director of the Italian fur and leather goods fashion house Fendi, and of his own label. The designer from Germany, who became Metro's global guest editor in 2012, was recognized for his signature white hair, black sunglasses, fingerless gloves and high, starched, detachable collars.

Keith Flint

A founding member of electronic dance band The Prodigy died on March 4 aged 49. According to an Instagram post by bandmate Liam Howlett, the English singer took his own life at his home in Essex. After his death, fans used the hashtag 'Firestarter4Number1' on social media in order to try to get the song "Firestarter" to Number 1 in the UK Singles Chart as a mark of respect for Flint and to raise awareness for male suicide.

Grumpy Cat

The American Internet celebrity cat known for her "grumpy" facial appearance, which was caused by an underbite and feline dwarfism passed away on May 14 from complications after contracting an infection, aged 7. The feline was the subject of a popular meme in which cynical images were made from her photographs.

How to spend New Year's Eve 2020 in NYC without going near Times Square

letters@metro.us

New Year's Eve is one of those events where it seems all of humanity has converged upon New York City. If you fancy rubbing shoulders (or more) with at least a million of them, Times Square is your best bet. But if you'd rather enjoy a more curated, yet still public, experience, check out any of the many events happening in the city; below is just a sampling.

1. TWA Hotel New Year's Eve – Party Like It's 1962

The new TWA Hotel in the landmarked Saarinen building at JFK Airport invites you to "wing" in the new year with a 1960s-themed soiree with live retro music, an ice skating performance, dinner stations, and champagne aplenty long into the night.

2. The Roller Wave: A New Year's Eve roller disco party

The Ace Hotel New York will be rolling out a ticketed party ($100; $50 skating only) on wheels in its Liberty Hall venue for New Year's Eve. From 7-11 pm, expect a hearty celebration of rollerskating with music from Hot 97 DJ E Stylez and an open bar and dancing from 11 pm - 1 am.

3. Top of the Standard: New Year's Eve with Sister Sledge

If you'd rather sit and drink in some glittering 360-degree Manhattan views than roll around on skates, the once-impossibly-buzzy club at the top of the Standard High Line–A.K.A. the Boom Boom Room–is having a ticketed (so no waiting in line) rooftop affair, with tables, Moët champagne and Belvedere vodka on ice, performances by the Pointer Sisters, and DJs until the wee hours.

4. New Year's Eve at Eataly Downtown

Celebrate Italian-style with lots and lots of good food, wine and cocktails, live entertainment, incredible views, and a sparkling toast at Eataly Downtown, just steps away from the Oculus in lower Manhattan.

5. New Year's Eve at Lemon's in the Wythe Hotel

If you don't even want to venture into Manhattan, head to the top of Williamsburg's Wythe Hotel, where Lemon's will be hosting a disco-inspired gathering.

Metro thanks readers for spreading the Magic

ISTOCK

Metro recently wrapped up its 10th annual Tony's Metro Magic toy drive, which collected hundreds of items for local children this 2019 holiday season.

Each year, Metro calls on its readers to choose items from a wish list to be shipped to charities in New York City, Philadelphia and Boston. Perhaps not surprisingly, the most popular toys readers selected include dolls from the ever-popular Disney hit, "Frozen." But among the donations was the gift of warmth, as several readers opted to buy children some much-needed winter coats, as well as towels.

Although the Metro Magic toy drive has come to a close, the local charities we partnered with are always seeking help.

Those interested in helping Metro's New York partner, Coalition For The Homeless, which offers a variety of programs in food and housing assistance, job training, and more, can visit www.coalitionforthehomeless.org. In Boston, we partner with Heading Home Inc, the city's leading provider of emergency shelter, transitional and permanent housing for low-income families and individuals. Visit www.headinghomeinc.org to learn more.

And finally, our Philadelphia partner, Institute for the Development of African-American Youth (IDAAY), which empowers at-risk youths to succeed, can be contacted by visiting idaay.org. MORGAN ROUSSEAU

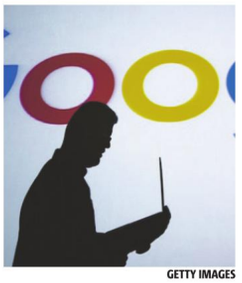
Here's what NYC Googled the most in 2019

Google shared a list of the biggest searches of 2019 for every state and big city.

BECCA GLASSER-BAKER
Rebecca.Glasser@metro.us



GETTY IMAGES

Have you ever been curious as to what the most Googled thing in NYC is? You're in luck because Google shared it's Google's "Year in Search," which looks at what everyone has searched for throughout the year.

To determine the 2019 "Year in Search," Google looked at the trillions of search queries over the year. Google said that these aren't the most searched for topics by the number of searches because those don't often change from year-to-year. They looked at trending queries that had a high spike in traffic over a period of time from 2018 to 2019 and put together a list of the top 10 trends per city.

Google shared with Metro the top trending words for New York City:

Nipsey Hussle
Jussie Smollett
Game of Thrones
Cameron Boyce
Luke Perry
Antonio Brown
Avengers Endgame
Disney plus
iPhone 11
Notre Dame

If you're curious about how NYC compares to the United States, below are the top searches for the U.S.:

Disney Plus
Cameron Boyce
Nipsey Hussle
Hurricane Dorian
Antonio Brown
Luke Perry
Avengers: Endgame
Game of Thrones
iPhone 11
Jussie Smollett

New York City and the United States shared some common themes, such as Nipsey Hussle. Jussie Smollett, "Game of Thrones," Cameron Boyce, Luke Perry, Antonio Brown, "Avengers Endgame," Disney plus and iPhone 11.

In fact, the only trend that New York City did not share on the national level was Notre Dame. Nationally, the final trend that did not show up for New Yorkers was Hurricane Dorian.

The Netflix decade: How one company changed the way we watch TV

Paradigm shift in our viewing habits via the Netflix revolution.

REUTERS

In the not-so-distant past, TV viewers were forced to wait a week for the next installment of their favorite shows, parceled out by networks in half-hour or hour-long increments.

Fast forward to 2019, when media and tech companies are subverting that schedule and the majority of viewers using U.S. TV streaming services watch an average of four hours of content in one sitting, according to Deloitte.

To understand how we got here, look at Netflix.

At the start of the decade, binge watching involved VHS tapes, DVD box sets or long nights glued to a DVR. TV cable hits included "Homeland" and "The Wire" - hour-long dramas with complicated plot lines that needed to be watched sequentially.

Watching "Saturday Night Live" on a Sunday became normal, and viewers started to lose track of the broadcast schedule.

In November 2010, Hulu, which debuted in 2008 as an ad-supported streaming video site, launched its subscription service, including full seasons of certain shows.

Around the same time that the broadcast TV schedule was losing its hold on viewers, Netflix was beginning to invest in original content.

In 2011, it struck a deal for its first original show, the political thriller "House of Cards." It released all 13 episodes of the show's first season on Feb. 1, 2013. That July it followed with the entire first season of "Orange is the New Black."

Viewers were hooked, and the cultural shift accelerated. "Binge-watch" was a runner-up to "selfie" for the Oxford Dictionary's 2013 word of the year.

Netflix championed this new kind of consumption, commissioning a survey to determine how many people binge-watch, and why.

"Our viewing data shows that the majority of streamers would actually prefer to have a whole season of a show available to watch at their own pace," said Netflix Chief Content Officer Ted Sarandos at the time.

While some say the decade technically ends a year from now, the end of this year will be marked by many as the conclusion of the second decade of the 21st century. And as the new decade begins, the trend may start to reverse, with many companies reconsidering traditional models. REUTERS

The best TV shows of the past decade

Metro's staff dishes out their top television picks.

With so many incredible and entertaining choices, it can be hard to narrow down what shows are considered "the best" of the past decade — but Metro did try. Here are the top picks for the best television shows the past ten years has provided.

"Ozark" (2017-)
This riveting drama follows a financial planner who relocates his family after a money laundering scheme with a Mexican drug lord goes wrong. The writing, acting, production and direction of this series is by far some of the best ever seen not even in just the past decade. Molly Given

"Downton Abbey" (2010-2015)
"Downton Abbey" took viewers time-traveling to the early 20th century by capturing the essence of an era. From the downstairs staff to the countess, it's hard not to fall in love with one of the characters. Becca Glasser-Baker

"Schitt's Creek" (2015-2020)
This sitcom follows one wealthy family after they find themselves completely broke and must relocate to the small town of Schitt's Creek. Each character is absolutely hilarious, the chemistry between the cast is exceptional and the show is also genuinely heartwarming as well. MG

"Stranger Things" (2016-)
When a young boy disappears, his mother, friends and a police chief battle bullies and supernatural creatures to rescue him from another world. BGB

"Mindhunter" (2017-)
"Mindhunter" examines the eerie phenomenon of serial killers and how the FBI first began to attempt to understand, study and catch them. Each season has its own nail-biting storyline, and this show is truly unlike any other. MG

"Game of Thrones" (2011-2019)
The epic show has everything you could want: dragons, royalty, strong characters and epic battles. What's not to love? BGB

"Parks and Recreation" (2009-2015)
This delightful sitcom follows the Parks Department in Pawnee, Indiana and the hilariously colorful staff who work there. The series is truly a delight and every episode is packed full of comedic genius. MG

"American Horror Story" (2011-)
Every season of this show is unique, creative and innovative. It follows a different storyline, but it tends to reuse the same actors in entirely different roles. BGB

"Fleabag" (2016-2019)
"Fleabag" follows the hilarious and tragic life of one dry-witted woman living in London as she tries to maneuver through grief and life's challenges. This show is set up so uniquely and truly has a life of its own. MG

"The Good Place" (2016- 2020)
This show took the world by storm with its charming sense of humor and tried to answer the question of what happens after you die. BGB

"It's Always Sunny in Philadelphia" (2005-)
A narcissistic and selfish group of morally deprived individuals own a bar in South Philadelphia, and the results of 'The Gang's' over-the-top antics are undoubtedly some of the best quality TV out there. MG

"Legends of Tomorrow" (2016-)
A team of often forgotten and hysterical superheroes combat everything from mythical creatures to historical figures. BGB

PACKAGES NOT BEING DELIVERED IN TIME FOR CHRISTMAS

I had 3 packages that did not get delivered in time for Christmas this year. I ordered them about a month ago, well in time for them to get to me. Next year, I'm just going to the store.

Aries Overdoing it will be exhausting. Try to keep a positive attitude and a happy demeanor. The more affectionate you are, the easier it will be to get your way.

Taurus Traveling, getting together with friends or relatives, catching up on correspondence or beginning to put your strategy together for the changes you want to make next year should be your focus.

Gemini Don't get dragged into someone else's plans. You are best off being direct about what you want to happen and willing to go it alone in order to reach your goal.

Cancer Reflect, revise and prepare to move on. Take stock of what you've accomplished and what you've left undone. If you listen to someone else's perspective, it will help you put new plans in place.

Leo A personal change may not be welcome, but it will help you break loose from what's holding you back.

Virgo Spending time with people who make you happy will lead to positive decisions and a worthwhile change. A move, pleasure trip or lifestyle adjustment is favored.

Libra Stick to people who share your opinion. If you get into a debate with someone who opposes you, it will ruin your day. Focus on love, romance and entertainment.

Scorpio The ideas offered will encourage you to do things differently at home or change the way you handle your money or health concerns.

Sagittarius You have a right to change your mind. If you don't like the way something is unfolding, back away. Don't make a personal change based on hearsay.

Capricorn Remembering days gone by will help you reflect on your accomplishments. If you get together with friends or relatives, listen to what they have to say; something could prove valuable.

Aquarius If you feel you need a change, be subtle. Taking drastic measures will backfire. Focus more on health, diet and exercise if you want to improve your physical appearance.

Pisces Make adjustments to the way you handle your finances, health and legal matters. Positive change begins with a good plan and the energy to make it happen. EUGENIA LAST

The 10 best films of the decade

2019 has been a pretty amazing year in film. As we close the book on the 2010s, we decided to take a hard look back at some of the best films of the last decade.

"Bridesmaids" (2011)
The best film to break up the comedy boys club
Aside from comic book adaptations and anything with Dwayne "The Rock" Johnson, the buddy comedy has been one of the most successful film templates at the box office over the past decade. But no other film has stood the test of time quite as well and as consistently hilariously as "Bridesmaids." The film starring and written by Kristen Wiig, with her writing partner Annie Mumolo, and directed by Paul Feig not only cemented the film career of Melissa McCarthy -- and crowned her the undisputed champ of dropping F-bombs onscreen -- but also earned Oscar nominations for Best Original Screenplay and Best Supporting Actress for McCarthy. Pat King

"Holy Motors" (2012)
Best art house film to watch while low key dosing (not micro-dosing)
Look, so I don't do drugs anymore, but if I did, I would certainly do it while watching "Holy Motors." I wouldn't do too much though. "Holy Motors" provides a lot of stimulation cause for anxiety and paranoia. Look, just set aside two hours one evening with one close friend. The sensations and enigmas buried in this mesmerizing film will stay with you through the next decade. Thank me later. James Case

"Inside Llewyn Davis" (2013)
The best film to capture the existential battle between art and capitalism
In "Inside Llewyn Davis," the Coen Brothers use the backdrop of 1960s Greenwich Village to create a meditative allegory on what it means to be an artist with convictions in a world that only sees dollar signs. Davis, played by Oscar Isaac in his breakout role, is a has-been folky trying to make it in the city's burgeoning scene without having to compromise his artistic vision or returning favors from friends who let him crash on their couches. It's a film about the existential push and pull between being a creator and a consumer told in a poignant and hilarious way only the Coen Brothers can. PK

"John Wick" (2014)
The best film to make you immediately want to hug your dog
Allow me to paint the scene for you. It's the wee hours of the morning and I'm bending to the will of my insomnia with a viewing of "John Wick" on HBO on low volume in the one-bedroom apartment that my wife and I shared at the time with our dog, Annie. As the movie begins, I'm shaken to my core that a group of thugs has killed Mr. Wick's brand new puppy that his deceased wife bought him as a present. By the end of it, I'm standing up and cheering for Keanu Reeves as he gets his righteous bloody revenge. Who says movies don't make you feel things? PK

"Mad Max: Fury Road" (2015)
Best mainstream blockbuster to watch while low key dosing (not micro-dosing)
In some way, everyone wants maximalism and "Mad Max: Fury Road" delivers. Subtlety and minutia is just so dishonest sometimes. I want to be battered over the head with over-the-top deranged action, with a random guy playing a guitar on the front of a f-king truck. I want a goddamn chase movie. I don't want a movie to end or think about an opportune time to go to the bathroom. I want to piss my pants during the movie. I want to keep f-king going. JC

"Arrival" (2016)
Best film to watch completely supine with the film projected onto the ceiling in, say, an observatory
Denis Villeneuve has been my favorite director this decade. I was torn between picking "Prisoners," "Sicario" or even the polarizing "Blade Runner 2049" as his best movie of the decade, as his work (notably supported by the expert cinematography of Roger Deakins) has been the most consistent between art house and mainstream this decade. "Arrival" will be seen in retrospect as his most accessible, and it has aliens, mind-bending perspective shifts and an elaborate time travel plot. JC

"The Square" (2017)
Best film with a guy pretending to act like an animal
A lot has been said about the central scene in Ruben Östlund's contemporary epic, but "The Square" is so much more than that. It's an art satire, a send-up of feigned altruism and male privilege, and modern relationships. It's really funny, really messy and absolutely captivating. JC

"First Reformed" (2017)
Best ending
The problem with the elevation of television as the go-to medium for prestige narratives is that endings are utterly undefined and pushed off. By the time a series ends, the original writers and creators may be long gone. It's not particularly hard to start great works, and it's particularly unchallenging to open a lot of threads without the audience's focus coming on how it will all end. Film can't do that. Paul Schrader's "First Reformed" is utterly cohesive with each part having a function, and the ending is sublime and reminds us that film has core strengths over television. JC

"Mandy" (2018)
The best film to unleash the RAGE CAGE
Despite some of the choices the man has made over the last, oh, twenty years or so, there is no actor that can so effortlessly bring any project he's a part of past the brink of screaming on the subway insanity as Nicolas Cage. While it seemed like we had lost him to direct-to-streaming action film purgatory for good, he turned in one of the most entertaining and unhinged performances of his career with Panos Cosmatos' revenge-horror classic "Mandy." Watching the Rage Cage screaming and chugging a bottle of vodka in his underwear may have been one of the single greatest moments that 2018 had to offer the universe. PK

"Cats" (2019)
The best film to …
Psyche! PAT KING & JAMES CASE

A perfect getaway for business or pleasure

Head to the Borgata Casino Hotel & Spa this winter and spring season.

MOLLY GIVEN
Molly.Given@metro.us

It's December, and although there really isn't too much of an outside draw to the beach right now, there still is plenty to do down at the shore in Atlantic City — especially at the Borgata Casino Hotel & Spa. The amenities at this Atlantic City hotspot range in interests for anyone of any age and a trip to this coastal casino is just what the doctor ordered.

If you need some time to relax, head to the Borgata's spa featuring a wide variety of grade-A services and also special midweek packages including a Universal Facial for $99, Winter Warm-Up Massage for $99 and an Aromatherapy Body Wrap for $99.

After pampering yourself at the spa, a culinary treat is definitely next up on the list, and the Borgata has certainly got you covered on that front. Guests can dine at a plethora of delicious restaurant choices including Izakaya by Michael Schulson and The Wine Bar at The Marketplace. Izakaya serves up a series of delectable options (think sushi, sashimi, samplers and Japanese sake) and a special food and drink menu every Monday, while The Wine Bar features a wide variety of enticing wine choices and delicious bites (think lobster ravioli, pesto chicken, eggplant parmesan and Caprese salad). Other fine dining options include Angeline by Michael Symon, Bobby Flay Steak, Old Homestead Steakhouse, Wolfgang Puck American Grille and more.

Guests can also do some shopping while at this coastal oasis. The Borgata offers a colorful amount of enticing retailers including Capri, Carina, Hugo Boss, Fixation, Misura and plenty of other specialty options.

But aside from the award-winning restaurants, electric dining options and swanky accommodations, the Borgata is also a great meeting place for all work-related necessities and even conventions.

The Borgata features 70,000 square feet of meeting space for your incentive, regional, sales or executive meetings and an additional 18,000 feet in the Water Club as well. All of the spaces are chock full of advanced technology, highly personalized and expert staff, and visual capabilities for all of your presentation needs. It's basically your one-stop shore shop for all things business-related this winter and spring.

In fact, according to the website, Borgata and The Water Club redefined not only what business and pleasure could be in Atlantic City, they've set the bar for what they should be. They've been recognized for outstanding service in meetings, incentive travel programs, trade shows and conventions by readers of some of the industry's most highly regarded trade publications.

So if you're looking for a little fun for business or pleasure (or both), look no further than the Borgata Hotel Casino & Spa this winter and spring season.

Presenting the All-2010s teams in NY sports

JOE PANTORNO
joseph.pantorno@metro.us

An added bit of nostalgia comes with the closing of the decade in a few days.

When it comes to the New York sports scene, it wasn't exactly the most prolific era.

The Giants were the only team to provide the city with a championship during the 2010s — a Super Bowl victory over the Patriots in 2012.

But that doesn't mean the past 10 seasons didn't provide sports fans in the Big Apple with memorable names and performers.

Generational talents have emerged while old, wily veterans have said goodbye.

Below are our All-Decade team rundowns for each of the eight major NYC-area sports franchises.

From all of us at Metro New York, have the warmest of holiday seasons and a blessed new year.
